      The Hadejia-Nguru and Baturiya flood plain wetlands (as showed on map) both of which are within the emirate, are highly recognised by nature conscious individuals and organisations the world over as the best wetlands in Nigeria that provide rare convenience as natural habitat for a large variety of birds, especially the migratory ones that annually come in to Nigeria, across the Sahara desert from western Europe to escape the harsh cold weather during the winter season. A large variety of reptiles are also found provide good means of livelihood for the birds.
      The complex ecological settings of the wetlands provide beaut at its best in all manner of wildlife habitat. The contrasting scenario of extensive water bodies, chains of ponds of marvellous shapes and sizes, the rich vegetation cover in relation to the very dry general environment obtained on the fringes of the Sahara desert make the wetlands a beauty to behold. Even though intense population pressure and regulated flow of water in to the Hadejia River System have combined to reduce the tourism attraction of the wetlands, there is still tremendous potential for the growth and development of flourishing tourism industry around the wetlands. In recognition of the importance and tourism potential of the area and in an effort to conserve its rich wildlife and their habitat, the Kano State Government in 1985, carved out the area of Baturiya wetlands and reserved it as Birds sanctuary. In 1987 the Nigerian Conservation foundation (NCF) in collaboration with several international conservation agencies such as the royal society for the protection of Birds (RSPB), the international Union for the conservation of nature and natural resource (IUCN) and the International council for Birds preservation (ICBP) established the Hadejia-Nguru Wetland conservation Project that covered much of the lower reaches

JIGAWA STATE

PEOPLES AND CULTURE

ETHNIC COMPOSITION

The state is mainly populated by the Hausa, Fulani and the Mangawa, Badawa and Ngizimawa which are dialects of the kanuri language. They constitute the majority of the population in the state. There are other settled tribes both from within and outside Nigeria inhabiting in almost all the local Government areas. There is a high concentration in the state capital.

RELIGION

Islam is the predominant religion of the people with over ninety nine percent (99%) of the population being practicing Muslims. Christian religion has a smaller percentage of its practitioners.

The rich cultural heritage of the people is reflected in their mode of dressings, music, dance, craftsmanship and hospitality. Hausa culture and traditions are well known. Mangawa, Ngizimawa and Badawa still maintain their cultures and tradition in their areas of concentration. These are mostly seen through their mode of settlement.

CFESTIVALS

As practicing Muslims the Eid-el-fitr and Ed-el-kabir (sallah) celebrations are the main festivities of the people and these cuts across ethnic barriers being celebrated all over the world. The Ed-el-fitr is celebrated on the 1st of shawwal which is the ninth month in the islamic lunar calendar to mark the end of the Ramadan. The 10th of Dhull Hajj, the 12th month of the Islamic lunar calendar. The 12th of Rabiul Awwal which is the 3rd month of the Islamic calendar is marked to commemorate the birth of the Holy prophet Muhammad (S.A.W). The celebration is popularly tagged sallah Gani in Hadejia and Gumel Emirates districts. Festivals of the people include kokawa (Traditional wrestling) and Dambe (Traditional boxing) mostly performed at the end of the harvest season. The sallah is celebrated by the Fulani community. Fishing festivals do also take place in the state periodically as at when organized.

marked on the 10th of Dhull Hajj, the 12th month of the Islamic lunar calendar. The 12th of Rabiul Awwal which is the 3rd month of the Islamic calendar is marked as a day for maulud celebrations to commemorate the birth of the Holy prophet Muhammad (S.A.W). The celebration is popularly tagged sallar Gani in Hadejia and Gumel Emirates due to the fanfare associated with it. Other festivals of the people include kokawa (Traditional wrestling) and Dambe (Traditional boxing) mostly performed at the end of the harvest season. The Sharo (Traditional flogging) is restricted to the Fulani community. Fishing festivals do also take place in the state periodically as at when organized.

ARTS AND CRAFTS

This is one area that had continued to play a dominant role in the socioeconomic well being of the people by providing gainful employment and complimenting the economic life of farming families. Some of the arts and crafts are weaving (raffia and cloth), pottery, smithing, tanning and leather works. Others are curving (calabash and wood), traditional textile and architecture.

POPULATION

According to the 2006 census, the State had a total population of over 4.3 million inhabitants. The population growth of the state is estimated at 3.5 % with about 48 % of the population falling under the age of fifteen. Out of the estimation about 2.9 million are considered to be productive adults. Eighty per cent (80%) of the population is found in the rural areas and is made up of mostly Hausa, Fulani and Manga (a Kanuri dialect). The pattern of human settlement is nucleated, with defined population centers. Cross border migration between Jigawa State and neighboring states and between the State and Niger Republic is common. Migration of people into the state is highest during the dry season when cattle herders from neighboring Niger Republic migrates to the south in search of pasture and water for their animals. Outward migration is a feature of the off farming season known as “cirani” during which people leave the state in search of jobs in the neighboring states, particularly Kano and some major cities in the country.

TRADITIONAL STRUCTURE

The state is divided into five emirates each administered by a traditional ruler called Emir (sarki) with District Heads, Village Heads and Ward Heads assisting them. The Emirs and District Heads, unlike other public functionaries, do not exercise political power but serve as custodians of culture and advisers to the Government on traditional and religious affairs. All the Emirs are first class title holders.
